The Management of Federal Teaching Hospital, Ido-Ekiti in collaboration with the Training and Staff Development Unit (FETHI), organized a comprehensive and transformative Orientation and Induction Program for new employees. The two-week intensive and enlightening program which commenced on Monday 8th, 2024 was segmented into two categories: general and departmental. These activities were aimed at providing holistic introduction to the inner workings, organizational ethics and overarching goals of FETHI thereby fostering a strong foundation for the newly recruited employees to thrive and contribute meaningfully to the growth and success of the Institution. In his enlightening address, he emphasized the critical importance of adhering to professional rules and standards and imbibing the Mission, Vision and Core Values of the Institution. He thereafter admonished them to be willing to consider new ideas, hence making significant impact in the lives of countless patients, their families and the community at large as they embark on a promising career in FETHI. Papers were presented on various fields by seasoned professionals.

There was a question and answer session, handled by the Chief Medical Director Prof Ebenezer Adekunle Ajayi. Giving the closing remarks, the Head of Administration, Mrs. Adelegan Foluso, enjoined the new employees to ensure respect among themselves and other members of staff, and also be wholly part of the system regardless of their ethnicity or tribe and as well wished them a beautiful stay in their years of service in FETHI. Part of the Orientation was a facility tour of the hospital premises coordinated by Officers of the Information & Corporate Affairs Department (FETHI).
